CHRYSANTHEMUM CULTURE

A few do's and don'ts: Plant in well prepared soil that has had a coat of manure the previous fall or winter if you have it, or an application of commercial fertilizer worked into the soil 10 days before planting. Side dress with any fertilizer about July 10th, again when buds appear just before a rain. Keep well cultivated, pinch out top when 6 or 8 inches high, again after the side branches have made good growth. Not after July 20th it might be too late for buds to set. Don't plant too near a building or tall trees. Give them room enough to develop and produce the blooms you expect. By all means dig up your old clump each Spring, divide using the new shoots, destroy the old core. You will be rewarded for your labor.

NEW GIANT EARLY HARDY ENGLISH CHRYSANTHEMUMS

The early English Chrysanthemums are a new race of Chrysanthemums that originated in England. Some of the West Coast Canadian growers first imported them from England.

E. EARLY NAME AND DESCRIPTION—3 AT DOZ.	M. MEDIUM L. LATE	HEIGHT IN INCHES	BLOOMING DATE	PRICE
				EACH	PER DOZ.

Then several growers started growing them in the State of Washington. They are equal in hardiness with any garden chrysanthemum and they are rated so far superior to the old garden chrysanthemum that there is no comparison.

We have found that early planting of the plants or divisions by June 1st in our locality, pinching the tops out after they reach a height of 6 to 8 inches, and disbudding down to 8 to 12 blooms per plant make them bloom much earlier and give those immense flowers, on good sturdy stems. We have found these mums hardy here in New Jersey without protection, and feel they are as hardy as any of the regular garden chrysanthemums.

Dear Sir,

Please find enclosed the stamps for postage on package I received so promptly. Never have I gotten such nice plants by mail. I know now where to deal. Thanking you again for the nice box of plants and for the extra one. C.H.J.

From Beaumont, Texas

Dear Sir,

In regards to the Mums I must say that this is the first time that I have received plants as far away as Magnolia, N. J. to Beaumont, Texas, and not even have a wilted leaf among the plants for in the past we have expected to lose one in every five plants. I will not hesitate to recommend your plants both for size and the care that is taken in packing them for shipment. And I should know as I have experimented for the past 6 years with plants and getting them shipped from almost every state in the United States. R.E.G.
